HOUSE DESTROYED BY FIRE—The Dewey Turnbow home, just east of Lynn Grove on Highway 94, was destroyed by fire at 9:50 p.m. Tuesday. Here, Rescue Squad personnel Robert Trenholm and Eddie Stone cut the power lines to the home, while electrical sparks fly in the background from the live wires. The structure was also known as the old Cora Lockhart place.

Public Hearing To Be Held On Jobs Property

A motion to hold another public hearing for the proposed rezoning of a house and lot at 1200 Sycamore was approved by the Murray Planning Commission last night.

The lot, owned by Loretta Jobs, was one of three lots which were approved last month by the planning commission for rezoning to professional office, but were turned down by the Murray City Council.

The other lots were at 1202 Sycamore, which is also owned by Mrs. Jobs, and the house and lot just north of Roberts Realty, on 12th Street, which is owned by Mrs. J. M. Marshall.

Strong opposition to rezoning the house and lot at 1202 Sycamore, which is on the corner of 13th and Sycamore, was heard from residents of 13th Street, who did not want to see the property rezoned.

The council returned the matter to the planning commission, recommending that it reconsider the other Jobs lot, at 1200 Sycamore, for possible rezoning.

The Marshall property will not be reconsidered separately, since there is a study underway for the entire length of 12th Street between Sycamore and Chestnut, and the Marshall property will be considered in that study.

City Planner Steve Zea reported on that study, saying it will be completed within 60 days, provided several extra work sessions are scheduled by the planning commission to consider several details of the study.

Larry Bartlett, who is in charge of campus planning for Murray State University, was at the planning commission meeting last night to explain the university's plans for development of the campus, including a pedestrian mall on 15th Street, and an overpass at Chestnut and 15th.

Members of the planning commission expressed concern that the closing of 15th Street would put an additional traffic burden on an already overcrowded 16th Street, where traffic now backs up for several blocks from Main Street at peak hours.

Plans for an expansion of a planned development district by Dan Miller were approved by the planning commission also last night.

The expansion calls for two more units of six apartments each, and must now be approved by the board of zoning adjustment.

In other action, the commission also approved the final plat of the Clarence Hortin subdivision, consisting of six lots and a total of 11.4 acres.

Tappan Return To Full Production Running On Schedule, Dickson Says

The Tappan Company is moving about on schedule in getting the Murray Operation back into full production, local plant general manager Dave Dickson said today.

The plant was idled over 18 months due to a strike by the local union and Dickson predicted in early January after a settlement was reached that it would take from 60 to 90 days to get the plant back into full production.

"By the first of April, we hope to have some significant numbers in here as far as people are concerned," Dickson said.

About 160 workers have already been called back to work at the plant and more equipment is being shipped in every day, Dickson said. Over 500 were working at the plant prior to the strike which began June 23, 1975.

The energy crisis locally has hampered plant operations somewhat, Dickson said.

"We are trying to find some alternate fuel sources," Dickson added.

Production personnel are presently working eight hours, four days per week and office personnel are working ten hours, four days per week, in an effort to conserve energy.

Meanwhile, the Tappan Co. and the United Steelworkers of America have reached a three-year labor agreement for workers at the firm's major appliance plant at Mansfield, Ohio, the company announced.

Tappan said no other labor agreements with the appliance division are due to expire during the three-year period.

The Mansfield facility currently produces microwave ovens and certain gas ranges. Some of the gas range production is currently in the process of being relocated to the Murray plant and the company's line of space saver microwave ovens has been transferred to the newly acquired Dalton, Ga., facility.

Health Officials Hoping For Test Results On Flu-Like Virus

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — State health officials are hoping to have results today of tests to determine whether an influenza-like virus in several Kentucky communities really is flu.

"We're extremely anxious to know what it is," said Dr. Carlos Hernandez, preventive services director in the state Bureau for Health Services.

Hernandez speculated Tuesday that the illness, which has forced the closing of at least eight Kentucky school systems, could be type B flu — fairly common among school children this time of year.

The symptoms reported to school officials across the state include sore throats, headaches and upset stomachs.

Hazard city schools closed for the rest of the week after about one third of pupil enrollment contracted the virus. Supt. James Caudill reported nearly 400 absentees Tuesday.

Webster, Union, Henderson, Muhlenberg, Crittenden and Ohio county school systems closed for the rest of the week.

Muhlenberg County school officials report a 22 per cent absentee rate while about one-fifth of Crittenden County pupils report symptoms of the virus.

Hopkins County schools called off classes for today.

Henderson and McLean county schools closed after flu-like symptoms among pupils were reported last week. Henderson County schools reopened Monday but closed after Tuesday.

McLean County schools reopened Tuesday. Officials said a daily decision is being made on continuing classes.

School officials in Daviess, Graves, Hancock and Simpson counties also reported absentee problems but no decision was made to cancel classes.

Hernandez said closing school may help prevent transmission of the virus, but only temporarily.

When the school reopens the following week, the virus could reappear, he said.

Hernandez said although closing schools is a "doubtful" health remedy, it often is a financial necessity.

State allocations to school districts are based on average daily attendance. If absenteeism is high, it is not financially feasible to hold classes, Hernandez said.

"The question is how long do you keep them closed," Hernandez said. "For the whole flu season?"

Debate Coaches Announce Plans Here, Western

Debate coaches at Murray State University and Western Kentucky University have announced plans for teams from each school to host the other for debates Feb. 22 and March 1.

Larry Caillouett, director of forensics at Western, said the first debate is scheduled at 7 p. m. in the Grise Hall Auditorium at Western, while the second will take place at 7 p. m. a week later in the Student Center Auditorium at Murray State, according to Robert Valentine, director of debate at Murray State. Both are free and open to the public.

The resolution, "That the Federal Government should significantly strengthen the guarantee of consumer product safety required of manufacturers," will remain the same for both debates. However, the sides will change.

Western will defend the affirmative side with the team of Teresa Jenkins and John Butchke against the Murray State team of senior Rick Maxedon and sophomore Ike Thacker in the opening debate at Western. Debaters have not been named for the second debate at Murray, where Murray will take the affirmative and Western the negative.

Valentine said exchange is an important new direction for the debate programs at the two schools.

"We are trying to show our campuses that debate is more than bright students taking off to tournaments every other weekend," he explained. "We can entertain and inform many people right at home and we intend to do just that."

Murray won the Ohio Valley Conference debate championship this year and Western took high honors at the recent Barkley Forensics Tournament at Murray State.

Local Trash Output Totals 22,400 Tons

Are Calloway County residents contributing their proportionate share of rubbish and refuse to the nation's trash pile each year?

What is the annual output, locally, of discarded beverage cans, paper products, garbage, plastic containers, rubber tires, food, broken appliances and the like?

Solid wastes of this kind have become a matter of great concern in many communities, according to a national study made by the Environmental Protection Agency.

It finds that consumers across the country are producing no less than 160 million tons of such waste materials per year, up from 125 million in 1971. And that is exclusive of junked cars.

Calloway County's donation toward this total is estimated at 22,400 tons a year, including 3,200 tons of food scraps.

The average disposal rate in the area, assuming that local residents generate solid waste materials on the same scale as most other people in the United States, is 4.1 pounds per capita daily, according to the EPA report.

A study by the National Center for Resource Recovery indicates that 100 pounds of normal household refuse consists of 55 pounds of paper, 14 pounds of food, 18 pounds of metals and glass and 13 pounds of plastics, wood scraps and miscellaneous matter.

What to do with all this trash? In most places, the answer is to burn it or bury it, generally in the town dump.

Alternatively, it could be converted into energy. The potential nationally, if

Guidelines For Dr. Morgan Sisk Scholarship Fund Announced

Guidelines for the Dr. Morgan Emery Sisk, Jr., Memorial Scholarship have been released and the first award will be made to a Murray State University graduate student in biology for the 1977-78 school year.

Applications for the scholarship to be awarded through the Alumni Association program must be submitted by March 1. A recipient selected by the scholarship committee of the association will be presented at the annual alumni banquet on the campus April 30.

A perpetual scholarship fund established upon the death of Sisk on May 2, 1976, now totals $10,179. The amount of the scholarship award each year will be determined by the interest accrued on the base investment. The first scholarship will be at least $600.

To qualify for the scholarship, a student must have completed at least one semester of work toward the master's degree in biology, with a specialization in fishery or other aquatic studies in the Murray State region in preparation for a career in research, service, or education.

Graduate students in wildlife biology or some other area of field biology may be considered if there is no eligible applicant in the field of aquatic and fishery studies. All applicants must be recommended by the chairman of the Department of Biological Sciences or a graduate academic adviser.

Sisk, who was the director of Murray State's Hancock Biological Station on Kentucky Lake, was fatally injured in a highway accident at the age of 46. He had been a member of the faculty at Murray State 12 years and was widely known for his biological research, particularly projects relating to area fish.

The former Paducahan earned the B. S. degree at Murray State in 1953; the M. S. degree at Oklahoma State University in 1961, and the Ph. D. degree at The Ohio State University in 1972. He was awarded a National Science Foundation Faculty Fellowship for his doctoral studies.

The Murray State Alumni Association, in cooperation with Sisk's widow, Mrs. Jane Sisk, his friends, and the Department of Biological Sciences, initiated the scholarship fund drive in his memory.

Delta Department Members Show "Treasures" at Regular Meeting

"Sharing Treasures" was the theme of the program at the meeting of the Delta Department of the Murray Woman's Club held on Tuesday, February 1, at the club house.

The program consisted of member participation with each member being asked to bring a "treasure" to tell about and share with other members. Quilts, glassware, books, and pictures were displayed with some dating back to one hundred years. Mrs. Harry McGurk introduced the program in the absence of the program chairman, Miss Rubie Smith.

The department chairman, Mrs. Edwin C. Strohecker, conducted a brief business meeting.

At the December meeting Mrs. Graves Hendon's name was drawn for the pendant given to the club for a money-making project by Miss Clara Eagle.

Hostesses for the meeting were Mesdames Robert Usrey, Thage Uddberg, Eugene Tarry, Holmes Ellis, Sr., Jack Kennedy, and Inez Claxton.

CANDIED GRAPEFRUIT PEEL

A "waste not, want not" confection.
2 grapefruit, medium or large
1 cup sugar
1/2 cup light corn syrup
1 cup water

With a swivel-blade vegetable peeler, remove peel from grapefruit in wide strips. Turn into a medium saucepan, cover with cold water and boil 5 minutes; drain. Repeat 3 times. Dry well on paper towels. With a kitchen scissors cut peel into 1/4-inch wide strips. In a medium saucepan over low heat stir together the sugar, corn syrup and water until sugar dissolves. Add grapefruit peel and bring to a boil. Simmer until most of syrup is absorbed—about 40 minutes. Drain off excess syrup. Roll peel, a few pieces at a time, in extra granulated sugar. Dry in a single layer on a wire rack, uncovered, at room temperature for 24 hours. Store in a tightly covered container. Makes about 1 1/4 pounds.

HEARTLINE

HEARTLINE is a service for senior citizens of all ages. Its purpose is to answer questions and solve problems — fast. If you have a question or a problem not answered in these columns, write HEARTLINE, 114 E. Dayton St., West Alexandria, Ohio 45381. Senior citizens will receive prompt replies, but you must include a stamped, self-addressed envelope. The most useful replies will be printed in this column.

HEARTLINE: I will soon be 62 years old. Would you suggest that I retire early and take reduced Social Security benefits or should I wait until I am 65 to receive my full benefits? C.M.

ANSWER: This is a question that individuals must answer themselves. However, Heartline feels you should consider the following factors in regard to your Social Security benefits:

1. If you start drawing Social Security at 62, you are receiving three additional years of income from Social Security, but this income would be 20 per cent less yearly than if you waited until 65 to begin drawing.

2. If you wait until 65 to draw Social Security, you would receive full benefits, but the money you lose during the three years you did not draw Social Security will take 12 years of drawing to regain. This is based strictly on income from Social Security.

3. You must decide if a reduced Social Security rate will be sufficient to meet your present and future monetary needs or if the full benefit will be necessary.

We also feel there are many factors not related to Social Security you must consider:

1. The amount of money you would lose by leaving your present job.
2. Your present health condition.
3. Your desire to continue working.
4. The effect early retirement will have on your private pension plan, if you have one.

These are just some of the questions a person must consider before retiring. Since everyone's situation is different, there will probably be additional questions involved for you, and you are the only one who can answer them. You must weigh the answers to these questions carefully in your own mind, and then only you can make the decision as to when to retire.

HEARTLINE: My father is 62 years old. He retired last year and does nothing but sit in the front of the TV day and night. He complains about how bad the shows are when I visit him, but does not seem to be able to break away. I'm worried about his lack of activity. Can you give me some advice on how to help him? S.M.

ANSWER: Television seems to be one of the seductive avenues on which we are liable to fritter away precious time. Many people would be astonished at the huge amount of time they have invested in television viewing without any compensating rewards in pleasure or lasting satisfaction.

Heartline has put together some facts on this subject and some ideas that you can pass on to your father. They will help him break away from the television trap and find time to occupy himself with other activities that will be more pleasurable and interesting.

For these free facts, send a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Heartline — TV Trap, 114 E. Dayton St., West Alexandria, Ohio 45381.

Sensing The News

By ANTHONY HARRIGAN
Executive Vice President
United States Industrial Council

HARRIGAN

TODAY'S TOPIC: A SHOCKING STATEMENT

In the few weeks that he has served as United States Ambassador to the United Nations, Andrew Young has displayed a degree of irresponsibility and lack of understanding of the values and goals of the United States which clearly disqualifies him for further service.

On Feb. 3, The Washington Post reported that "In less than a week on the U.N. job, Young already had been repudiated three times by the State Department (twice by Secretary of State Vance personally), over statements on Vietnam, Rhodesia and the Cuban presence in Angola."

Apparently without authorization, Mr. Young advocated U.N. membership for Communist Vietnam. But his most disturbing statement—the real shocker—was his statement that the Cuban expeditionary force was a stabilizing force in Angola.

That statement came in the midst of the huge winter storms in the United States and was almost lost in news reports. The American people as a whole surely don't know what Mr. Young said in an interview conducted by Dan Rather of CBS News on the eve of Mr. Young's departure for Africa.

Mr. Young asked Ambassador Young about the role of the Cuban troops in Africa, which are proxy forces for the Soviet Union. Mr. Young denied there was any reason for great concern about Castro's units, saying that "there's a sense in which the Cubans bring a certain stability and order to Angola."

That's like saying there was no reason to be concerned about the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia in 1968 because "in a sense it brought a certain stability and order to Czechoslovakia."

Mr. Young doesn't understand that communism always produces "a certain stability and order." That's what one finds in the Gulag Archipelago—the world of Soviet prison camps—chronicled by Alexander Solzhenitsyn. Indeed, communism often brings peace—the peace of the grave.

But Mr. Young doesn't worry about communism. He was most explicit about that in the CBS interview, saying "communism has never been a threat to me." Anyone who holds such views has no business representing the United States in the U.N.

Communism is the deadly enemy of the United States and every free nation. Communist totalitarianism has swallowed up hundreds of millions of people since the end of World War II. Communism is responsible for the death of scores of millions of people who opposed its totalitarian patterns.

Mr. Young says that racism, not communism, is the principal threat. He is bent on eliminating Rhodesia, which he regards as a racist state, though it has persons of both races in its parliament. But Rhodesia isn't a threat to peace in Africa or anywhere else in the world. Rhodesia doesn't possess a huge nuclear arsenal. Rhodesia hasn't built a Berlin wall, or subverted free governments in Europe. Rhodesia doesn't dispatch an expeditionary force halfway around the world to effect a victory by Marxist revolutionaries.

As an individual, Andrew Young has a right to be wrong-headed and ignorant of the bloody history of communism. As a private citizen, he can say that communism, embodied in the state regimes of the Soviet Union and its satellites, isn't a threat. As the ambassador of the United States, he has no right to spout such dangerous foolishness, which must shake the confidence of the American people and other free peoples. It is shocking, indeed incredible, that President Carter retained Mr. Young in office one hour after he made his statement that the Cuban forces in Angola "bring a certain stability and order." The security of the United States demands Mr. Young's instant removal.

The astonishing statement by Mr. Young is but one of many deeply disturbing situations on the national security front. David S. Broder, the respected political analyst for the liberal Washington Post, voiced the concern of many citizens when he wrote:

"In Washington, the fumbblings of the new administration may be recognized as no more than the evidence of inexperience. But they are deadly serious dangers to people around the world who depend on the steadfastness of the United States."

Roosevelt High School in Des Moines, Iowa, has become the latest victim of the "sexual equality" of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Actually, the casualty was the annual Valentine Daddy-Daughter Dinner at the school. Since federal civil rights officials had warned the local school board to cancel all "discriminatory" affairs, this year's banquet was announced as the last.

"What are they going to think of next?" asked a school counselor.

The president of the school's girls club added: "I don't see any harm in doing this for one night. I really think this sex discrimination policy is really getting out of hand."

Need we say more?

An up to the minute report on prices, supply, demand and other market factors for livestock, grain, poultry, eggs, dairy products, fruits, vegetables, cotton or tobacco, is now only a telephone call away according to the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Southeast Regional information office.

The USDA reports that the number of telephone market news reports has been growing by leaps and bounds. In fact, there are now telephones rigged with tape recording devices in over 234 locations across the country — up from 184 last year — so that the latest market information is on tap for almost anyone wishing to dial it up.

The reported information is provided by the USDA's market news services which are usually operated cooperatively with state departments of agriculture. Market news reporters, with a connecting network of teletypewriter lines, work all across the nation. In case you're wondering how you can tap this source of market information, the numbers to call in Kentucky are: Livestock, Frankfort, 564-4958; Louisville, 584-6617; Grain, Louisville, 584-6617; Tobacco, Lexington, 800-432-9532 (within state only).

Women are spending more years of their lives at work, while men are spending less, reports the American Council of Life Insurance.

Women's work-life expectancy has increased from 15.2 years in 1950 to 22.9 years in 1970, according to government statistics. During that same period, the work-life expectancy of American men declined from 41.9 years to 41.1 years.

Let's Stay Well

Recurrent Dizziness

By F.J.L. Blasingame, M.D.

Q: Mr. B.F., age 50, complains of recurrent spells of dizziness, however, he doesn't think the trouble is serious enough for him to see a physician or to take any medication. He wonders if he is bilious. He has a friend who takes pills for motion sickness whenever she is to ride in a car or plane, and he asks if similar medicine would help him.

A: Recurrent episodes of dizziness or vertigo may be a signal of other, more serious trouble. Rather than just suspecting biliousness, your inner ears (vestibular apparatus) and hearing should be carefully checked. Diabetes mellitus, a blood disorder or a brain tumor need to be ruled out.

If you were running a recurrent fever, you would want to learn the cause rather than just take aspirin. Your dizziness merits a careful history and an examination by a physician so that the appropriate treatment can be given, rather than seeking relief of a symptom without knowing its cause.

Red Eyes from Swimming

Q: Mr. M.P. writes that he swims regularly at a local health club. He thinks it is an excellent form of exercise that he tolerates well and that makes him feel relaxed. However, he is troubled by excessive redness of his eyes after a swim and wonders if he is allergic to the chlorine in the pool's water. A: Chlorination of the water in the swimming pool is a necessary and probably is causing chemical irritation, rather than an allergic reaction.

You may be swimming too long. Shorter exposure would cause less irritation. Wear goggles during swimming to reduce the irritating effect. Also, an eyewash that causes the blood vessels of your conjunctiva (lining of eyelids and cover over eyeballs) to contract and become less visible can be obtained from your pharmacist.

Nutrient Supplements Are Helpful

Q: Mrs. B.V. thinks that it is time to clean the slate and get rid of nutrient supplements to natural foods, she asks for comment.

A: To condemn all such supplements to foods is radical. Such a position is unwise and is not in the public interest.

Nutrient supplements are vitamins, minerals, or both, and their addition improves the nutritional value of foods. For example, iodized salt adds needed iodine to prevent goiter, the incidence of which is now markedly reduced since adequate iodine has been supplied. Milk may be improved by the addition of vitamins A and D.

Hunter Not Fond About His Nickname 'Catfish'

By CHARLES WOLFE
Associated Press Writer
HERTFORD, N.C. (AP) — Billboards at each end of this tiny town proudly proclaim it "Home of Jim 'Catfish' Hunter," but the New York Yankees' right-handed pitcher still is "Jimmy" to his family and the townspeople who have known him all his life.

Catfish Hunter is a familiar sight on television screens throughout the state in commercials for flea collars and his favorite chewing tobacco.

But visitors quickly learn the nickname was solely the idea of Oakland A's owner Charles O. Finley and that Hunter discards it along with his Yankees' pinstripes at the end of each baseball season.

"He gave me the name 'Catfish' when I signed (with Kansas City)," said Hunter. "Usually, when I'm playing ball — no matter where I'm at — when I hear somebody say, 'Jimmy,' I'll turn around and go over and talk to them. If they say, 'Catfish,' I'll just throw my hand up and keep on walking because they don't know me."

"Mostly, I'm just Jimmy Hunter," he said. "If nobody knows me, I'm better off." Jealous of his privacy, Hunter dislikes making personal appearances and eagerly returns to the soil of Perquimans County in northeastern North Carolina when baseball seasons end.

"I could have made five or six personal appearances a week, right up until I go to spring training," Hunter said. "But, I take about five a year and that's it. I feel like when I come home, it's my time. When I'm playing ball, it's their time. When I come home, when I do anything, it's because I want to do it. It's not because they want me to do it."

What Hunter wants mostly is to tend his two farms, hunt, fish and be with his family — his wife and high school sweetheart, Helen; 7-year-old son, Todd; and 3-year-old daughter, Kim.

Clad in grimy coveralls, Hunter sat in his pickup truck and gestured across a wide, flat field.

"I've got this farm to take care of," he said. "I got another farm up the road here that I've got to clear off and have ditches dug around, so I have to look after that."

Hunter said the 110 acres surrounding his unpretentious brick home were planted in corn, soybeans and peanuts.

while 125 acres would be planted in the same crops once the land was cleared.

He said he borrowed money for his 110-acre farm from Finley, and pointed toward another farm adjoining the property. "That went with it, too. There were about 400 and some acres altogether," he said. "I was going to pay him back $20,000 a year until I got it paid back. He sent the money down here. I didn't sign any papers or anything."

Hunter said he withdrew the money Finley deposited for him and paid for the land.

"About three months later, Finley started calling me. This was during the season," Hunter continued.

Finley began pressuring him to repay the loan, Hunter said, and became more insistent when Hunter told him he did not have the money.

"The only day he would call would be the day I was to pitch," Hunter said. "I had 14 wins going into August — had an easy chance to win 20 games. In August, he kept on calling and I didn't win a game. I won four in September and ended up winning 18 games. If he hadn't called so much, I'd have won 20."

"I had to sell part of the land," Hunter said. "I thought, well, maybe I paid him back by being a free agent from him."

"I knew I was going to become a free agent two or three days before they released it," he said. "Finley called and said, 'What will it take for you to come back to me?' I said, 'You get that farm you made me lose — about 350 acres — plus give me $100,000 cash tax-free and I'll come back to you.' He laughed. He said, 'Heck, you ain't going to get that much money to sign.' I said, 'All right, I'll just take my chances and go wherever I want.' And that was it."

"I would still have signed with the Kansas City club, because they were the only club that didn't have any pitching," he said. "They were still trying to build a ball club and I had a better chance to make the major leagues quicker."

"The only other place I'd ever live the rest of my life besides here would be Kansas City," he continued. "There's plenty of fishing, hunting and farm land. And the people around there, when I played, treated me so good."

"But, I don't know why you'd want to leave here," he said, referring to his plot near the far northeastern North Carolina shore. "If you're a country boy, this is as much country as you can get, because we've got the water. We've got every kind of wildlife you can have. You can do whatever you want to. You don't have the big cities, but heck, a country boy ain't used to a big city no way."

"I'll never change," Hunter said. "People around here who really know me say I haven't changed. People who don't know me — well, they really don't know what I'm like anyway."

Larry Johnson Giving Confidence To Players

By BOB COOPER
AP Sports Writer
LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Kentucky's second-ranked basketball team is displaying a rerun of last year with one good guard creating another.

Just a year ago, Kentucky was 10-10 on the season — something just not heard of for the Wildcats — and was still having trouble getting points out of its guard position.

Only four weeks later, Kentucky looked unstoppable in winning the National Invitation Tournament in New York and finishing the season with a 20-10 record, including victories in the last 10 games.

A big factor in the turnaround was junior guard Larry Johnson, who earlier in the season showed promise, but never quite got to the point where he was a big factor in Kentucky's games.

Coach Joe Hall explained the change at the time: "Reggie Warford (the only senior on last year's team) made the difference. He started playing really well and that took the pressure off Johnson," Hall said.

Now it's Johnson's turn. This season, the 6-foot-3 guard from Morganfield, Ky., is the only senior starter on the Wildcat squad and he's paying back what he got last year. He's giving confidence to others.

"He's really playing with a lot of emotion and he's kinda giving everybody else confidence," Hall said.

Johnson agrees that Warford's play last season was the key to his own emergence as a prime player, but he isn't at all sure that he can duplicate the feat.

"I think that we all are playing with more enthusiasm and that's what we lacked in the slump earlier in the season," he said, referring to a period when the Wildcats lost their only two games this year.

"Now, we're enjoying what we're doing and I think the reason for the slump was that we practiced too much during the Christmas break and were just tired."

"You can get too much of anything. For a while there, we did nothing but eat, sleep and dream basketball," Johnson said.

Whether he admits it or not, he apparently is contributing to the Kentucky guard tradition. His running mate for most of Monday night's 104-78 victory over Florida, Truman Clator, is improving by the minute.

"I don't know if he was kidding or not, but Clator told me he has been observing my play and trying to imitate it," Johnson said with a smile.

Clator did just that against the Gators. He hit seven of eight field goal shots, cashed all eight from the free throw line and handed off two assists.

Maybe next year, he can teach somebody else.

Arkansas Takes League Title, Louisville Wins

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer
Sports at the University of Arkansas usually is associated with football ... Frank Broyles ... Lance Alworth ... all those great Texas-Arkansas matchups.

They are not generally associated with a basketball team with the second-best record in the nation, 23-1; a No. 11 national ranking, and a Southwest Conference championship.

"It's a great feeling, especially at a school that hasn't won an outright championship since 1941," said Arkansas basketball Coach Eddie Sutton, whose team wrapped up the SWC title Tuesday night by beating Texas Christian 79-64.

"It's a goal that we set," said Sutton, "and now we've achieved it."

Ron Brewer scored 23 points and Marvin Delph 21 as Arkansas raised its conference record to 14-0. The Razorbacks jumped to a 43-24 halftime lead and coasted home against TCU, which is winless in 15 SWC games and 3-20 over-all.

The only major college team with a record better than Arkansas, top-ranked San Francisco, stretched its mark to 26-0, beating Los Angeles Loyola 104-65. In other games involving ranked teams, No. 8 Louisville defeated Tulsa 91-67 and No. 12 Minnesota edged Indiana 65-61.

Center Bill Cartwright hit on 11 of 12 shots from the field and scored 24 points as San Francisco clinched the West Coast Athletic Conference title by beating Los Angeles Loyola. The Dons broke open the game with a 28-4 burst early in the half and never were in trouble.

Louisville led just 38-33 at halftime but outscored Tulsa 23-8 in the first nine minutes of the second half. Rick Wilson scored 21 points and Wesley Cox 19 for the Cardinals, 19-3.

Osborne Lockhart, the Big Ten's top free-throw shooter, hit five foul shots in the final 1:33, helping Minnesota, 19-2, nip Indiana. That raised Minnesota's Big Ten record to 10-2 and put the Gophers one-half game behind first-place Michigan.

Mullaney Takes Over As Braves' Head Coach

BUFFALO (AP) — The Buffalo Braves are hoping seven will be Joe Mullaney's lucky number.

General Manager Bob MacKinnon of the Braves turned over the coaching reins to Mullaney Tuesday night, making Buffalo the seventh pro team which the 51-year-old Mullaney has coached.

"I'm just happy Bob had enough faith in me to give me the job," said Mullaney, who joined the Braves of the National Basketball Association last month as an assistant after Bates Locke was fired as head coach and MacKinnon took the job on a temporary basis.

"The interim period has come to a close," said MacKinnon, who coached the Braves for seven games, including a 126-114 loss to Washington Tuesday night. "I'm sure Joe will do a superior job."

Mullaney, who played with Bob Cousy at Holy Cross and helped the team to the NCAA title in 1947, coached Providence College for 14 years before beginning his odyssey through the pro ranks.

He coached the Los Angeles Lakers of the NBA in 1970 and 1971, then moved to the American Basketball Association, guiding Kentucky in 1972 and 1973 and Utah in 1974. He coached Memphis in 1975 and moved with that team to Baltimore following the close of the season. After the Baltimore Claws folded, he took over as coach of the Spirits of St. Louis in the middle of last season.

His Kentucky team compiled a 68-16 record in 1972, while his Utah squad reached the playoff final.

"He has some good ideas on basketball," said MacKinnon. The Braves have stumbled to a 19-34 record this season, including 16-30 under Locke, who took over after Jack Ramsay was fired following last season. They have undergone a host of personnel changes, dealing off players like Bob McAdoo, Jim McMillian, Tom McMillen, Tom Van Arsdale and Ken Charles.

The current roster includes some proven players, including forwards John Shumate and Adrian Dantley, center George Johnson and guard and team captain Randy Smith.

"The team has settled down pretty well and has some talented personnel," said Mullaney. "I hope to put in some new things offensively." Mullaney said he has not been assured of the coaching job beyond this season. "I'll just be trying to work out the rest of the year the best I can," he said.

St. Mary Edges Past Lakers

By MIKE BRANDON

Ledger & Times Sports Editor

Ever take the old jalopy out for a Sunday afternoon drive and about the time you got almost to where you were going, discovered you were about out of gas?

That's about the best way to describe how Calloway County lost 66-62 to St. Mary Tuesday night in the MSU Sports Arena.

It was the poorest display of basketball I've seen since Christmas," Laker coach Robert Slone said of his team's loss.

Indeed, it was.

Neither team looked like they really wanted to win the game. St. Mary, which hit only 13 of 35 shots in the first half, missed their first nine shots of the game.

The Vikings missed countless layups, kicked the ball around and looked about as sloppy as a team could look. But there was only one thing: Calloway played worse.

Somehow, St. Mary managed to hold a 32-24 lead at halftime.

The tone of the game was set in the first quarter.

Calloway raced to a 5-0 lead and appeared on the verge of having an easy game. But in a span of six minutes, the Lakers managed to put only four points on the board and with 1:37 left in the period, Mike Wells hit on a 10-foot jumper to give Calloway a 9-8 lead.

Both teams appeared to awake from the doldrums in the final minute and the Lakers carried a 14-12 lead into the second frame.

With 4:05 left in the half, Wells hit from 10 feet to tie the game at 20 apiece. The Lakers did not score again until 47 seconds were left in the half.

So to make it quite simple, the Lakers played about nine minutes of the first half without scoring.

St. Mary scored the first four points of the second half and upped the lead to 12 points. The largest lead of the game came with 6:16 left in the third period when David Scheer hit on a three-point play to give the Vikings a 41-28 lead.

With two minutes left in the third frame, the Vikings had a comfortable 12-point lead when they began to fall apart under the Laker press.

And going into the last quarter, St. Mary held only a 53-48 lead.

As it was in the third period, the Vikings scored the first four points of the last frame to go up 57-48. Then the Lakers began to click.

Wells scored from under, Futrell hit a 15-footer, Wells hit two free throws and suddenly, with 4:39 left in the game, it was a 57-54 lead for St. Mary.

The prettiest play of the game came with 4:20 left when Futrell stole the ball off the press, drove the middle and shoveled off a pass to a breaking Mike Wells who hit the bucket and St. Mary led only 57-56.

With a minute left, it was still a one-point St. Mary lead, 63-62, when the Vikings were called for a five-second violation. Calloway got the tip but with 41 seconds left, Ronnie Scheer came up with a big steal and drove toward the bucket but he missed the shot.

However, Jeff Riedfort tipped in the ball and the Vikings led 65-62.

The Lakers came down, put up a shot and committed a foul in the battle for the offensive rebound. Ronnie Scheer hit one of two free throws to make it 66-62.

The Lakers wrapped up defeat when they came back down and turned it over. St. Mary got the ball with 17 seconds left and simply passed it around until time expired.

"I thought we had a bad game at Tilghman but at least we hustled," Slone said.

"I don't think we realized we were getting beat until it was too late to do something about it. If we would have played just an average game, we would have won," Slone added.

Back in November, the teams met in a jamboree at Carlisle County and the Lakers got a two-point win.

"They fooled me back then.

Back in November, the teams met in a jamboree at Carlisle County and the Lakers got a two-point win.

"They fooled me back then.

I felt at that time they could play. We had problems with them defensively. They took it to the basket and hit the boards hard. They've had a lot of close games and in pressure situations, that's always an advantage," Slone added.

Junior forward Jimmy Lamb was only able to play for about five minutes. Sophomore Ricky Garland started in his place but received a cut lip early in the game.

"I only let Lamb play to get back in the swing of things. And when Garland got the cut, that sort of put a damper on him for the night," Slone added.

Each team had 38 rebounds. Wells had 14 for the Lakers while senior David Scheer had 12 for St. Mary and sophomore Ronnie Scheer grabbed nine.

Both teams shot poorly from the field. Calloway hit on 24 of 62 for a .387 mark while the Vikings hit at a 40 per cent pace on 26 or 65.

St. Mary placed four men in double digits with Riedfort hitting for 17 while David Scheer added 14. For the Lakers, Wells hit a game-high 25 while Futrell tossed in 21 points.

St. Mary improves its record to 9-10 while the Lakers fall to 14-12.

Calloway will have all the competition it needs Friday when they visit Cairo Senior.

Murray Beats Mayfield Fourth Successive Game

WHERE'S THE SADDLE — Andrea Perry isn't very happy about this call. David Youngblood of the Cardinals is on Perry's back and is also reaching around. But it was called a jump ball. By MIKE BRANDON Ledger & Times Sports Editor.
Back in late November, before the basketball season was underway, the talk around the First Region was Mayfield would be the team to beat.

The talk may prove to be right. The tall and talented Cardinals battled to the wire Tuesday night in the Murray State Sports Arena before dropping a 76-74 game to Murray High.

Mayfield struggled through December and in one game, lost by 30 points to Lone Oak. But since that time, the Cardinals have received improved guard play and 6-8 sophomore center David Youngblood has developed into an outstanding player.

"They are a vastly improved team," Murray High coach Cary Miller said.

"They are so big, it's just hard to match up with them. But our little midgets can jump fairly well," Miller added.

Last month, the Tigers took

Ballard Remains Atop Cage Ratings

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Louisville Ballard remains atop the weekly Associated Press high school basketball ratings, but the Bruins have a new challenger for top honors in unbeaten Elizabethtown.

Elizabethtown, 16-0, moved up one spot to second this week after dispatching three opponents last week. The Panthers replace Ashland, which suffered its first loss of the year in a 67-60 setback at Lexington Henry Clay.

That defeat dropped Ashland two spots to fourth in this week's ratings and earned Henry Clay the No. 7 ranking.

Ballard, 20-2, collected 11 of 15 first place votes and 145 points to outdistance Elizabethtown, which earned three first place votes and 125 points.

Shelby County, fourth last week, moved up to third on the strength of one first place vote and 122 points, while Ashland garnered 112 points.

62-59 win at Mayfield. The win Tuesday marked the fourth consecutive time over a two-year span the Tigers have defeated Mayfield and of course, counting football, five. Football might have had a little bit to do with it, as far as getting the fans fired up. Mayfield began a little chant in the third period, reminding Murray High who had gone to the state football championship game.

And in addition, Mayfield began a "Hang it up Murray" yell as the Cardinals held a one-point lead midway through the third period. That fired up the Tigers fans, which in return, helped fire up the club.

With less than three minutes left in the third period, Bill McHugh hit a 15-footer and the Tigers stretched the lead to 50-47. Then free throws by Frank Gilliam and McHugh stretched the lead to seven at 54-47.

At the end of the quarter, Murray held a 56-51 edge.

Midway through the final quarter, McHugh hit on a drive to give Murray a 63-59 lead. Then the Tigers' sticky man-to-man defense and a fullcourt press began to take its toll on the Cardinals.

Senior guard Raymond Sims came up with a big steal near midcourt and drove for a bucket. Then with 4:02 left in the game, Sims again stole the ball. He dribbled down court and fired off a pass to Lindsey Hudspeth who hit the basket to make it 67-59.

But Hudspeth was called for a charging foul and on the same play, David Wyatt cashed in two free throws for Mayfield and the Tigers held a 67-60 lead with 3:49 left.

The play of the game came with 3:14 left when Sims hit Andrea Perry with a feed pass inside. Perry went up over the 6-8 Youngblood and 6-5 Don Hubbard. The ball fell in and a foul was called. The three-point play made it a 70-61 Tiger lead.

Murray still had a comfortable 75-68 lead but with 58 seconds left, the margin was cut to five as Wyatt hit two free throws.

Then with 44 seconds left, McHugh got trapped and when he tried to find an opening, was called for a charging foul. The Cardinals worked the ball inside to Youngblood and he scored with 35 seconds left to make it 75-72.

Brett Harcourt hit the first of a bonus with 16 seconds left to give Murray a 76-72 edge. His second shot fell off. The Tigers missed a tip and Mayfield quickly got the ball down the floor. With five seconds left, 6-3 Joey Shelton scored and it was 76-74.

Mayfield took a timeout then came back out and committed a foul. Gilliam went to the line for the bonus but missed. The Cardinals managed to get off a 60-foot desperation shot that fell far short of the basket.

"It wasn't a classic game," Miller said.

"We didn't really play that well. Gilliam had a sprained ankle and we really didn't know how much he could go."

Perhaps the key was the man-to-man defense in the second half, a switch from the zone the Tigers used in the first two periods.

"We went with the zone to force them to shoot outside," Miller said.

"We achieved it for a while but then we started standing around," Miller added.

Six times in the first half, the score was tied before Murray forged to a 34-33 lead at intermission.

Mayfield's last lead of the game came with 4:13 left in the third period when Hubbard hit two free throws to boost the Cardinals in front 44-34. But with 3:56 left, Sims hit on a three-point play and the Tigers never trailed again.

Youngblood, who had an outstanding all-around game, tossed in 19 points as did Hubbard while Shelton added 13.

For Murray High, the 6-4 Perry fired in 19 points while Sims had 15, Hudspeth 14 and McHugh 13.

The Tigers were plagued with fouls all evening. McHugh fouled out late in the final minute and four other Tiger players all had four fouls.

Mayfield hit on 28 of 53 from the field for a good 528 clip while Murray connected on 29 of 59 for a 492 pace.

Both clubs had 34 rebounds. Youngblood had 13 for Mayfield while Hubbard pulled down 10. For the Tigers, Perry had 12 and Hudspeth 10.

Mayfield falls to 13-6 with the loss while Murray, now 13-3 on the campaign, will try to avenge an earlier loss when they meet top-rated Symsonia Friday night in the MSU Sports Arena.

Airline Passengers Complaining In Record Numbers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Airline passengers are complaining in record numbers to the Civil Aeronautics Board about delayed flights, baggage handling, overbookings and other shortcomings in service. The board received a record 16,124 consumer complaints in 1976, a 35 per cent increase over 1975. The previous record was 15,720 in 1974. Reservations-related problems led the list of complaints with 2,504. Some 1,192 came from ticket-holding passengers upset when they were denied seats because the airline had overbooked their flights. Baggage complaints to CAB totaled 2,014 last year, with 1,322 for lost or damaged luggage and 441 for delays. Some 1,519 complaints concerned confusion over different price plans and 1,229 letter-writers were upset about late flights. But the agency said the volume of complaints it handles is not necessarily a valid gauge of any change in the quality of airline service or airline responsiveness to passenger problems. For one thing, the board pointed out in a statement, it has not determined whether all the complaints were valid. A CAB spokesman noted most passenger grievances are made to airlines, not to the board. He attributed the increase in 1976 complaints to CAB primarily to "heightened public awareness of the existence of the board's consumer activities." A spokesman for the Air Transport Association, which represents the airlines, contended that the CAB complaints do not mean service has deteriorated. "The CAB's office of consumer advocate has been most active in the last year," he said. "It has been more publicized and has encouraged those who thought they were wronged to write letters." The ATA spokesman said another factor in the over-all rise in complaints was that 10 million more passengers flew out of U.S. airports in 1976 than 1974. The complaints to the CAB represent fewer than three passengers per 100,000 boardings, he said. He noted that in one category, service in general, complaints actually decreased 26 per cent from 1975 to 1976. The complaints about overbooking result from the widespread industry practice of "selling confirmed reservations" on a flight to more customers than there are seats. The companies say they must do this to compensate for air travelers who make reservations they don't keep. The Supreme Court last year upheld a decision that Allegheny Airlines had to pay Ralph Nader $25,000 for bumping him from a Washington to Hartford, Conn., flight in 1972.

Gasoline Price Hikes To Continue

NEW YORK (AP) — Gasoline prices started rising late last month and will probably continue to rise through the summer, oil industry experts say.

Last year at this time, prices were falling, as they often do once the summer vacation driving peak is past.

But crude oil and refinery labor costs have gone up this winter, and the Federal Energy Administration has relaxed its regulation on passing on the costs to consumers.

In the past two weeks, retail prices of regular and premium grades containing lead have risen just under a half-cent a gallon on average nationwide, according to the Lundberg Survey Inc., which monitors prices at about 20,000 service stations across the country.

And Lundberg says the nationwide average retail price of unleaded gasoline has risen more than six-tenths of a cent per gallon.

Industry analysts think gasoline prices will rise another 3 cents this year on average. The increase will be greatest for unleaded fuel, which costs more to make and for which demand is growing.

Each penny per gallon increase costs motorists about $1 billion a year.

The retail increases so far reflect wholesale price hikes on all major brands of leaded gasoline of about 1 cent a gallon since Feb. 1, the Lundberg firm says.

The hike in the wholesale price of unleaded has been higher — between 1.5 cents and 3 cents a gallon — depending on the brand.

Oil companies can raise prices only if their costs go up. Last November, the FEA says, the oil industry had accumulated some $763 million in costs that hadn't been passed on in higher prices.

Since then, the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries has raised the price of its crude oil, and this high-priced oil is now moving through U.S. refineries.

In addition, higher wages have been granted refinery workers under labor contracts signed in January.

The increases for unleaded gasoline can be traced to a change in price regulations by the FEA on Feb. 1.

Oil companies had been required to spread price hikes evenly over all grades of gasoline. Now they can pass on costs by raising prices on individual grades.

Unleaded gasoline is more costly because additional refining is needed and more of the raw product naphtha is used in the process.

Output...

all trash were so converted, would be an amount of energy equivalent to 219 million barrels of oil annually.

The combustible waste products generated per year in Calloway County contain the energy in 30,700 barrels of oil.

However, such conversion is not feasible, economically, except in densely populated areas, notes the EPA, because of the expensive installations needed and the huge flow of trash required for efficient operation.

Some communities have solved the problem by joining together to operate a conversion plant in common. Each brings its waste products there for disposal.

First Steps To Safeguard Privacy Taken

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP)—The first steps for additional safeguards of personal privacy have been taken by a state interim study commission.

The commission decided Tuesday to restrict distribution of names and addresses by a public agency for commercial purposes.

The Commission on Stored Information and Personal Privacy is considering proposed changes in the new Open Records Act.

The group, consisting of four legislators and three citizens, is concerned about sales by the state to profit-making organizations.

It approved new language in the statute which would read:

"An individual's name and address may not be distributed for commercial purposes, sold or rented by a public agency unless such action is specifically authorized by statute."

There is one exception—the names and addresses of persons seeking licenses for professions can be supplied for educational purposes.

Thus, if an accounting school wanted the names of potential students in this state, it could obtain them.

Mike Greer, a Legislative Research Commission staffer, said failure to list that exception has hindered or blocked enactment of privacy laws in other states.

However, the commission found that the proposed limit on sales of listings would not necessarily achieve the objective.

The practice of selling Kentucky drivers' records to insurance companies—handled by the state Division of Driver Licensing—was brought up. The practice is not authorized by statute and seemingly would be banned if the proposed changes become law in the 1978 legislature.

However, some members pointed out that under the Open Records Act, insurance firms can legally obtain the data.

Such a limit also would not affect sales of voter names, addresses and precincts, which a statute authorizes. The secretary of state's office

County Schools To Be In Session

The Calloway County School System has announced that Friday, February 18 and Friday, March 18 will be regular school days in the county schools.

These two days were listed previously as in-service days for the teachers; however in-service was held during the bad weather when the school buses were unable to make their runs, according to the county school officials.

sells the data.

Sen. David Karem, D-Louisville, the commission chairman, said the ultimate goal is to limit the use of a person's name to the purpose intended.

The privacy commission approved proposed language to strengthen secrecy of names on public rolls when such data is not already available.

For example, it added "personal information systems" to records listed by the law.

And it called for "policies and procedures to insure the security (of information systems) and to protect the privacy of the individual." Another proposal approved would allow an agency to write regulations guarding privacy. Only the Department of Finance and Administration currently is authorized to do so.

Karem said the privacy commission plans a public hearing soon.

FBI Investigating Multimillion Dollar Racket Of Exported Autos

BOSTON (AP) — The FBI is investigating a suspected multimillion dollar racket involving Ghanaian citizens who allegedly buy new cars in Massachusetts, then report them stolen and ship them through New York for inflated resale in Africa.

The agency has warned one of the nation's largest credit firms to watch out for the purported scheme.

The Ghanaians allegedly involved come to the United States as tourists, businessmen and students, law enforcement and trade sources say. They allegedly report the cars stolen to avoid payment and collect insurance or skip out on installment payments, according to the sources.

On the West African black market, new and recent vintage cars in the six-cylinder category can bring up to $40,000 in Ghanaian currency, cedis, at official exchange rates.

The FBI here confirmed it is investigating the purported scheme but refused to divulge details.

The Associated Press learned the FBI has warned the giant Ford Motor Credit Corp., finance wing of the Ford Motor Co., of the purported scheme. That firm, in turn, has cautioned dealers in the Northeast to tighten procedures for selling cars to Africans, according to Tom Foote, a company representative at Ford headquarters in Dearborn, Mich.

Trade sources, many of whom wished to remain unidentified, claim the purported scheme has also surfaced in California, where cars are driven to Corpus Christi, Texas, for shipment to Africa.

Some in the financing trade said Massachusetts was a target because its strict consumer laws make it difficult for agencies to refuse credit. Also, they said they fear the Ghanaians allegedly involved in the purported scheme would say they were refused credit because of race and invoke antidiscrimination laws.

Mini-Mall Planned

CADIZ, Ky. (AP) — Construction may begin this summer on a $1.5 million mini-mall and shopping center on this city's east side.

The project is sponsored by 15 Trigg County businessmen, who said that final lease negotiations and financial security still have to be finalized.

Persons who finance automobiles with intent to avoid payment violate federal banking regulations and face two years imprisonment and $5,000 fines if convicted, the FBI said.

"We ship 50 to 60 cars a month — for — Ghanaian — students," said Joseph O'Brien, assistant line manager of the Black Star Line, the Ghanaian-government-owned shipping line.

O'Brien said the line tried to guard against shipping cars reported stolen and not fully paid for by demanding title, registration and auto serial numbers before departure.

But investigator Richard Daley of the Massachusetts Registry of Motor Vehicles said the line's procedures would not necessarily prevent shipment abroad of cars not fully paid for.

Scotia Investigation Enters Second Phase

OVEN FORK, Ky. (AP) — An investigation into the two explosions at the Scotia Coal Co.'s No. 1 mine last March has entered its final phase after three five-member company crews reached the point of the blasts.

Ray Ross, a federal Mining Enforcement and Safety Administration (MESA) official, said Tuesday it will probably take another month to complete exploration of the mine section.

Recovery workers Monday reached the Two-Southeast section of the southeastern Kentucky mine in which 26 men died in the two explosions. Fifteen men were killed March 9 when methane gas exploded in the Letcher County mine; 11 other men, including three MESA inspectors, were killed in a similar blast two days later while repairing damage from the first explosion.

Ross said crews found the first 800 feet of the section "mainly black" from the force of explosions. He said ventilation stoppings were blown out.

Recovery crews stopped after 800 feet and set up ventilation controls before continuing the exploration, Ross said. The next step is to disconnect batteries on equipment in the section, he added.

One of the batteries, which powers an air compressor for brakes on a mine locomotive, has been speculated as the ignition source of the methane gas explosions.

MESA officials said the methane level in the section now is too high for an explosion to occur.

After the second explosion last March, federal officials ruled out a rescue attempt for the final 11 victims and ordered the mine sealed to prevent the possibility of another blast. The mine was reopened last July and crews dug through the rubble and high water to remove the bodies of the 11 victims.

After that, crews began a systematic inspection of the mine, ventilating 1,000-foot sections before moving on. Progress has been slow but steady as crews slowly moved some 3½ miles to the site of the explosions.

Now that investigators have reached the scene, the area will be combed for possible clues into the cause of the two explosions.

MESA, which held hearings in nearby Whitesburg shortly after the explosions, said it plans another round of hearings in that Letcher county town after the mine investigation is completed.

WASHINGTON (AP) — This winter's frigid weather in the eastern two-thirds of the country so far has been the coldest "since the founding of the Republic," the National Weather Service says.

The Weather Service reached that conclusion on Tuesday, drawing from government records dating back to about 1800 and from earlier diaries, garden books, insurance records — wherever people wrote down the temperature, — one forecaster said.

The average temperatures last month in the East and Midwest were the lowest for any January on record. The average reading in the East was 25.1 degrees, slightly cooler than the previous record, 25.3, registered in 1857. In the Midwest, last month's average was 11.3 degrees, well below the 12.9 degrees in 1857.

Meanwhile, another government agency said the severe weather helped push industrial production down in January by the biggest margin in nearly two years.

The Federal Reserve Board said output of the nation's mines, factories and utilities slumped 1 per cent last month, "reflecting lost production due to especially cold weather and natural gas shortages, especially in the latter half of the month."

Industrial production is a key to creating jobs in the economy and the January drop interrupted what economists had hoped would be a steady and healthy expansion of the economy from the doldrums that set in last summer and fall.

Further declines in industrial output are expected in February because of the cold weather, the board said.

The Weather Service has forecast colder than normal temperatures in the East and Midwest for February. If that prediction holds up, the service said, this winter will clinch the title of coldest since 1758, when an anonymous clerk at the

Philosophical Society in Philadelphia began the nation's oldest continuous record of daily temperature readings.

Gasoline Price Hikes To Continue

NEW YORK (AP) — Gasoline prices started rising late last month and will probably continue to rise through the summer, oil industry experts say.

Last year at this time, prices were falling, as they often do once the summer vacation driving peak is past.

But crude oil and refinery labor costs have gone up this winter, and the Federal Energy Administration has relaxed its regulation on passing on the costs to consumers.

In the past two weeks, retail prices of regular and premium grades containing lead have risen just under a half-cent a gallon on average nationwide, according to the Lundberg Survey Inc., which monitors prices at about 20,000 service stations across the country.

And Lundberg says the nationwide average retail price of unleaded gasoline has risen more than six-tenths of a cent per gallon.

Industry analysts think gasoline prices will rise another 3 cents this year on average. The increase will be greatest for unleaded fuel, which costs more to make and for which demand is growing.

Each penny per gallon increase costs motorists about $1 billion a year.

The retail increases so far reflect wholesale price hikes on all major brands of leaded gasoline of about 1 cent a gallon since Feb. 1, the Lundberg firm says.

The hike in the wholesale price of unleaded has been higher — between 1.5 cents and 3 cents a gallon — depending on the brand.

Oil companies can raise prices only if their costs go up. Last November, the FEA says, the oil industry had accumulated some $763 million in costs that hadn't been passed on in higher prices.

Since then, the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries has raised the price of its crude oil, and this high-priced oil is now moving through U.S. refineries.

In addition, higher wages have been granted refinery workers under labor contracts signed in January.

The increases for unleaded gasoline can be traced to a change in price regulations by the FEA on Feb. 1.

Oil companies had been required to spread price hikes evenly over all grades of gasoline. Now they can pass on costs by raising prices on individual grades.

Unleaded gasoline is more costly because additional refining is needed and more of the raw product naphtha is used in the process.

Output . .

all trash were so converted, would be an amount of energy equivalent to 219 million barrels of oil annually.

The combustible waste products generated per year in Calloway County contain the energy in 30,700 barrels of oil.

However, such conversion is not feasible, economically, except in densely populated areas, notes the EPA, because of the expensive installations needed and the huge flow of trash required for efficient operation.

Some communities have solved the problem by joining together to operate a conversion plant in common. Each brings its waste products there for disposal.

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — The first steps for additional safeguards of personal privacy have been taken by a state interim study commission.

The commission decided Tuesday to restrict distribution of names and addresses by a public agency for commercial purposes.

The Commission on Stored Information and Personal Privacy is considering proposed changes in the new Open Records Act.

The group, consisting of four legislators and three citizens, is concerned about sales by the state to profit-making organizations.

It approved new language in the statute which would read:

"An individual's name and address may not be distributed for commercial purposes, sold or rented by a public agency unless such action is specifically authorized by statute."

There is one exception—the names and addresses of persons seeking licenses for professions can be supplied for educational purposes.

Thus, if an accounting school wanted the names of potential students in this state, it could obtain them.

Mike Greer, a Legislative Research Commission staffer, said failure to list that exception has hindered or blocked enactment of privacy laws in other states.

However, the commission found that the proposed limit on sales of listings would not necessarily achieve the objective.

The practice of selling Kentucky drivers' records to insurance companies—handled by the state Division of Driver Licensing—was brought up. The practice is not authorized by statute and seemingly would be banned if the proposed changes become law in the 1978 legislature.

However, some members pointed out that under the Open Records Act, insurance firms can legally obtain the data.

Such a limit also would not affect sales of voter names, addresses and precincts, which a statute authorizes. The secretary of state's office sells the data.

Sen. David Karem, D-Louisville, the commission chairman, said the ultimate goal is to limit the use of a person's name to the purpose intended.

The privacy commission approved proposed language to strengthen secrecy of names on public rolls when such data is not already available.

For example, it added "personal information systems" to records listed by the law.

And it called for "policies and procedures to insure the security (of information systems) and to protect the privacy of the individual." Another proposal approved would allow an agency to write regulations guarding privacy. Only the Department of Finance and Administration currently is authorized to do so.

Karem said the privacy commission plans a public hearing soon.

FBI Investigating Multimillion Dollar Racket Of Exported Autos

BOSTON (AP) — The FBI is investigating a suspected multimillion dollar racket involving Ghanaian citizens who allegedly buy new cars in Massachusetts, then report them stolen and ship them through New York for inflated resale in Africa.

The agency has warned one of the nation's largest car credit firms to watch out for the purported scheme.

The Ghanaians allegedly involved come to the United States as tourists, businessmen and students, law enforcement and trade sources say. They allegedly report the cars stolen to avoid payment and collect insurance or skip out on installment payments, according to the sources.

On the West African black market, new and recent vintage cars in the six-cylinder category can bring up to $40,000 in Ghanaian currency, cedis, at official exchange rates.

The FBI here confirmed it is investigating the purported scheme but refused to divulge details.

The Associated Press learned the FBI has warned the giant Ford Motor Credit Corp., finance wing of the Ford Motor Co., of the purported scheme. That firm, in turn, has cautioned dealers in the Northeast to tighten procedures for selling cars to Africans, according to Tom Foote, a company representative at Ford headquarters in Dearborn, Mich.

Trade sources, many of whom wished to remain unidentified, claim the purported scheme has also surfaced in California, where cars are driven to Corpus Christi, Texas, for shipment to Africa.

Some in the financing trade said Massachusetts was a target because its strict consumer laws make it difficult for agencies to refuse credit. Also, they said, they fear the Ghanaians allegedly involved in the purported scheme would say they were refused credit because of race and invoke antidiscrimination laws.

Mini-Mall Planned

CADIZ, Ky. (AP) — Construction may begin this summer on a $1.5 million mini-mall and shopping center on this city's east side.

The project is sponsored by 15 Trigg County businessmen, who said that final lease negotiations and financial security still have to be finalized.

Persons who finance automobiles with intent to avoid payment violate federal banking regulations and face two years imprisonment and $5,000 fines if convicted, the FBI said.

"We ship 50 to 60 cars a month for Ghanaian

students," said Joseph O'Brien, assistant line manager of the Black Star Line, the Ghanaian-government-owned shipping line.

O'Brien said the line tried to guard against shipping cars reported stolen and not fully paid for by demanding title, registration and auto serial numbers before departure.

But investigator Richard Daley of the Massachusetts Registry of Motor Vehicles said the line's procedures would not necessarily prevent shipment abroad of cars not fully paid for.

Scotia Investigation Enters Second Phase

OVEN FORK, Ky. (AP) — An investigation into the two explosions at the Scotia Coal Co.'s No. 1 mine last March has entered its final phase after three five-member company crews reached the point of the blasts.

Ray Ross, a federal Mining Enforcement and Safety Administration (MESA) official, said Tuesday it will probably take another month to complete exploration of the mine section.

Recovery workers Monday reached the Two-Southeast section of the southeastern Kentucky mine in which 26 men died in the two explosions. Fifteen men were killed March 9 when methane gas exploded in the Letcher County mine; 11 other men, including three MESA inspectors, were killed in a similar blast two days later while repairing damage from the first explosion.

Ross said crews found the first 800 feet of the section "mainly black" from the force of explosions. He said ventilation stoppings were blown out.

Recovery crews stopped after 800 feet and set up ventilation controls before continuing the exploration, Ross said. The next step is to disconnect batteries on equipment in the section, he added.

One of the batteries, which powers an air compressor for brakes on a mine locomotive, has been speculated as the ignition source of the methane gas explosions.

MESA officials said the methane level in the section now is too high for an explosion to occur.

After the second explosion last March, federal officials ruled out a rescue attempt for the final 11 victims and ordered the mine sealed to prevent the possibility of another blast. The mine was reopened last July and crews dug through the rubble and high water to remove the bodies of the 11 victims.

After that, crews began a systematic inspection of the mine, ventilating 1,000-foot sections before moving on. Progress has been slow but steady as crews slowly moved some 3½ miles to the site of the explosions.

Now that investigators have reached the scene, the area will be combed for possible clues into the cause of the two explosions.

MESA, which held hearings in nearby Whitesburg shortly after the explosions, said it plans another round of hearings in that Letcher County town after the mine investigation is completed.

WASHINGTON (AP) — This winter's frigid weather in the eastern two-thirds of the country so far has been the coldest "since the founding of the Republic," the National Weather Service says.

The Weather Service reached that conclusion on Tuesday, drawing from government records dating back to about 1800 and from earlier diaries, garden books, insurance records — wherever people wrote down the temperature, — one forecaster said.

The average temperatures last month in the East and Midwest were the lowest for any January on record. The average reading in the East was 25.1 degrees, slightly chillier than the previous record, 25.3, registered in 1857. In the Midwest, last month's average was 11.3 degrees, well below the 12.9 degrees in 1857.

Meanwhile, another government agency said the severe weather helped push industrial production down in January by the biggest margin in nearly two years.

The Federal Reserve Board said output of the nation's mines, factories and utilities slumped 1 per cent last month, "reflecting lost production due to especially cold weather and natural gas shortages, especially in the latter half of the month."

Industrial production is a key to creating jobs in the economy and the January drop interrupted what economists had hoped would be a steady and healthy expansion of the economy from the doldrums that set in last summer and fall.

Further declines in industrial output are expected in February because of the cold weather, the board said.

The Weather Service has forecast colder than normal temperatures in the East and Midwest for February.

If that prediction holds up, the service said, this winter will clinch the title of coldest since 1758, when an anonymous clerk at the

Philosophical Society in Philadelphia began the nation's oldest continuous record of daily temperature readings.

Gov. Julian Carroll kicks off the 1977 Kentucky Heart Fund Campaign. Assisting him are state Atty. Gen. Robert F. Stephens (left), Kentucky campaign chairman, and Patricia Bellar, 1977 Heart Princess. Miss Bellar, 12, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Bellar of Oil Springs, had a complicated form of congenital heart disease but underwent open heart surgery and recovered to lead a normal life. Volunteers will visit homes in the Commonwealth on Heart Sunday, Feb. 27.

Many Kentucky Employers To Pay Higher Unemployment Tax

FRANKFORT — Many of Kentucky's 57,000 employers will be required to pay increased unemployment insurance taxes this year to replenish trust fund reserves. The increase is required by state law to protect the solvency of the fund.

James R. Hayden, director of unemployment insurance compensation for the Department for Human Resources, said employers will be receiving letters explaining the estimated $11 million statewide increase. The trust fund balance dropped from $135.8 million on Dec. 31, 1975, to $123.8 million last Dec. 31. According to Hayden, benefits outweighed tax payments from employers during this period. "New jobs were not created as rapidly as expected and previous tax rates did not replenish the trust fund rapidly enough to prevent this increased tax," he said.

"Reserves in the trust fund could possibly last through the year but the higher tax rate will replenish the fund for any future recessionary periods," said Hayden.

He noted that 21 states had exhausted their reserves as of Jan. 18, and those states resorted to borrowing from the federal government. "The new rates computed by the Bureau for Social Insurance will eliminate the chance of such a depletion of Kentucky's trust fund," said Hayden. "Without this higher tax rate, Kentucky could exhaust current reserves, thus requiring employers to pay increased federal, as well as state taxes."

The higher tax rate must be paid on tax reports due by the end of April. Hayden explained that a possible 23,780 employers will be affected by the higher rates. The balance of Kentucky employers are either "non-covered" employers such as state and local governments and agriculture, or they are already paying taxes at the 2.7 per cent rate mandated by state law.

Water Resources Dept. Shows Achievements

FRANKFORT, Ky. — The 1976 records of the state water resources division show achievements in the dam program including inspections, maintenance and construction. This year the division's program will involve wild rivers, flood control, water supply and more dam projects.

Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection conducted safety inspections on about 100 dams throughout the state. The water resources engineers investigate each dam from all sides — the upstream or lakeside slope, the downstream slope, top of the dam, principal spillway and emergency spillway. They check for vegetative cover, erosion and slumps, debris, cracks, slope protection, animal burrows, and seepage.

Division engineers identified hazardous conditions at water impoundments at the Kentucky Harlan Coal Co. in Harlan County. The coal firm agreed to the division's remedial measures to abate the hazard and an agreed order was signed to prevent similar development in the future.

The water resources division planned and constructed a floodwater retarding structure at Boots Randolph Golf Course near Lake Barkley State Resort Park in Trigg County for the state parks department. It also completed a major restoration of Greenbo Lake Dam in Greenup County to insure continued safe use of the structure and impoundment.

The division progressed in developing design and construction plans of remedial measures for several hazardous coal refuse areas.

During 1977, the division expects to complete proposed boundary designations and management plans for the state's eight Wild Rivers. Guidelines for flood control and identification of water supply potential of the state's streams are also goals of the division.

Their Baby Is Boss's Namesake

By Abigail Van Buren

1977 by Chicago Tribune N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: What would your reaction be if a young woman who worked for your husband named her baby after him? Well, that's my problem, and I'm still upset about it.

This girl has worked for my husband for about two years. She's only 22, but that's old enough to know better. I wonder what her husband thinks? It seems to me that they could have found someone in his or her family to name their baby after.

We were invited to the christening. My husband went, but I said I had a headache and stayed home. I might add that my husband felt "honored," and he boasted to several of our friends that a woman in his office named her baby after him.

What do you think this foolish girl had in mind? Was she trying to make Brownie points with her boss? Or trying to obligate him so he'd give her baby a more expensive present?

THE BOSS'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: It's possible that the young couple named their baby after your husband because they respect and admire him—and for no other reason. Why assume that there's an ulterior motive? There may be none.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 10-year-old girl with a big problem. It's Sinbad, my kitten. He isn't even a year old and he keeps running off to be with a girl cat. What can I do?

I treat him nice, but since he met this girl cat he's hardly ever home. He comes home when it rains, but he just sits on the porch and won't even look at me, and when it stops raining, he is off again.

How can I keep Sinbad home?

MISS A.M. TALBOTT, FOUNTAIN, N.C.

DEAR MISS TALBOTT: You could keep Sinbad fenced in, but you'd have a very angry and frustrated cat on your hands. (How would YOU like to be "fenced in" so you couldn't mingle with boys during your teen years?)

DEAR ABBY: We are just ordinary people. My husband has a 9 to 5 job and I am only a housewife. We have been married for 10 years and in all that time we have never gone anywhere without taking our children. (We have three.) I have never had one night away from home except those few when I went to the hospital to have another baby.

We have never hired a sitter. Never needed one. My husband said the children grow up so fast we should enjoy every moment we can with them. I love my children, Abby, but don't you think I deserve a night out without the children just once a year?

STALE MATE

DEAR MATE: Your husband forgets that you "enjoy" your children all day, every day when he is at work. Remind him. You not only "deserve" an occasional night out, you NEED one.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Your Individual Horoscope

Frances Drake

FOR THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 17, 1977

What kind of day will tomorrow be? To find out what the stars say, read the forecast given for your birth Sign.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20)

Some planetary restrictions. Don't depend on the promises of others and don't make any binding agreements yourself.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21)

Stay in the groove. Don't take anything for granted even though all seems well. Investigate all situations.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21)

A day of surprises! A favor you recently bestowed is amply repaid and, in job matters, something of importance is decided in your favor.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23)

Your judgment somewhat "off." Forget your most ambitious plans for the moment and concentrate on routine.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23)

A fine day for achievement; also for making new contacts. You may even have the opportunity to cash in on an avocational skill.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

Your perception especially sharp now. In all matters, depend on your own judgment, not that of others.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

Caution should be day's keynote. Let others take the initiative. Maintain your quiet, efficient manner and remain in the background.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

Brace yourself for some opposition. If you are prepared, you can cope with it more easily. Travel plans made now should work out well.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

You may be offered an unusual proposition. Investigate with a view toward long-range benefits, and consider whether or not it suits YOUR standards. Some misleading influences.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Planetary influences indicate a wider scope of interests, possibly greater activity. But be careful not to overextend yourself.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

This day will liken itself to a game of chess. First moves will count heavily, and it will be important to figure out the strategy of the competition.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20)

Not much planetary help here, so day is practically your own to mold as you will. Try to conclude any pending negotiations. Stars are generous in that respect.

YOU BORN TODAY are highly intuitive, imaginative and creative in your leanings. You like people and aim to please, which you do very charmingly and sincerely. You are active, mentally and physically. Using all your faculties, you should have a most happy and gainful life.

You surmount obstacles easily and have the power to stride rapidly from small beginnings to outstanding successes—with many friends rooting for you along the way. Many artists, statesmen, scientists, writers and decorators have been Aquarius-born.

Eastern Coal Files Charges At Unions

By The Associated Press
Eastern Associated Coal Corp. has filed two charges with the National Labor Relations Board (NLRB) against two United Mine Workers local unions, alleging discrimination and illegal secondary boycotting in connection with a wildcat strike spreading through southern West Virginia.

The dispute that began the walkout — which has idled 6,000 miners — originated at one of Eastern's Keystone mines. It has been submitted to arbitration before James C. Duff, who has completed hearings. Duff said he will render his decision as soon as possible, but there is no indication the striking miners will return to work before then.

According to Eastern spokesman Al Lewis of Beckley, 11 of Eastern's 16 southern West Virginia mines have been shut down by pickets, putting about 2,800 miners out of work.

Mel Triolo, secretary treasurer of the Logan Coal Assoc., said about 2,000 miners have been idled in Logan County, where there are no Eastern mines. Another 1,300 miners were reported out in three Consolidation Coal Co. mines in Wyoming County and another in Mercer County.

The charges were filed against UMW Local 9781, which represents about 525 miners at Keystone mines No. 2 and 3 in Raleigh County and UMW Local 7604, which represents about 970 people at Kopperston mines No. 1 and 2 in Wyoming County.

Lewis said the charges were filed Monday with the NLRB. The walkouts apparently began Feb. 4 over a seniority dispute at an Eastern mine. Another dispute — over an arbitrator's decision — at Consolidation Coal Co.'s Buckeye mine at Stephenson in Wyoming County idled workers there at about the same time.

Joe Richards, Consolidation's vice president for its southern division, said his company has filed no charges with the NLRB.

Lewis said the dispute at Eastern began when the company named a dispatcher, passing over a miner who had more seniority and whom the union believed was qualified.

Lewis said his company has filed the discrimination charge against the locals because they are trying to cause Eastern to discriminate unlawfully. Lewis said the local is trying to force the company to choose the most senior man, whether he is qualified or not, when the company was actually trying to select what the contract specified was the most senior qualified man.

The other charge filed with the NLRB was of secondary boycott, which is illegal. Lewis said. Disgruntled pickets brought out other Eastern mines over the dispute, according to Lewis.

Lewis said his company is not yet considering seeking federal district court injunctions against the strikers.

Triolo added that all the Amherst and Pittston mines on Buffalo Creek, which represent about 60 per cent of Logan County's coal production, have been struck. Island Creek Coal Co.'s Logan County mines have also been closed by pickets, Triolo said.

Dairy Farmer Quitting After 36 Years At Job

CALIFORNIA, Ky. (AP) — Carl and Leona Butsch, both 62, are calling it quits after operating a dairy herd for 36 years. The area's most bitter winter did it.

"Carl just gave up," said Mrs. Butsch, after her husband did all he could to keep the herd of 30 cows going and then found one dead, frozen in a pond.

"He came in that Sunday and said, 'This is it.' He said he just couldn't take any more of it."

The Butschs are selling off their cows but plan to maintain their 207-acre Campbell County farm as a fertilizer and seed corn business. Perhaps, they said, they will raise some beef cattle.

"It was all on account of this frozen ice and frozen ponds," she said. "We got so aggravated we just got out of it."

The frigid weather in January froze the pipes before the water could be pumped to the cows. Butsch tried using a tractor to power the pump but the tractor froze up.

"The cows were just looking at you and saying, 'When are you going to give me a drink?'" Butsch shook his head.

He tried driving to Alexandria, Ky. daily to haul water to an 1,180 gallon cistern. He hired a bulldozer to clear ice from the holding pen where cows are kept before milking. "If we had been younger, maybe we could have endured it," said Mrs. Butsch. "We have been in it all our lives. We started as farmers and have been married 36 years."

"We worry if we did the right thing but we couldn't keep going the way things are. And we never had trouble all these years."

"My health is failing and I'm not getting any younger," Butsch said.

Mail Plane Pilot Remains Critical

CINCINNATI (AP) — The pilot of a mail plane which crashed Monday night while taking off at Greater Cincinnati Airport remained in critical condition at a hospital.

Airport officials said one of the motors of the twin engine plane stalled as pilot Robert Harris, 51, Lakeside Park, Ky., was taking off, and crashed in flames.

A spokesman for the U.S. Postal Service said about 75 per cent of the mail going from Cincinnati to Columbus, Ohio, was salvaged by airport firemen.

The Federal Aviation Agency (FAA) is investigating to determine the cause of the crash.

UK Office Gets ACTION Grant

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — The University of Kentucky Office for International Progress has received an $8,208 contract from ACTION to provide information about overseas opportunities in scarce skill areas.

ACTION is the federal agency which sponsors the Peace Corps. Ken Wiegand, a former Peace Corps volunteer, will coordinate the program at Kentucky.

Wiegand said that the Corps needs persons skilled in such areas as agriculture, environmental science, fisheries and health-related services.

He said such information will be passed along to students, adding that the Corps will be attempting to find 800 volunteers this spring.

Rooms Available At State Resorts

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Business is picking up at Kentucky state parks, but visitors don't have to call ahead to reserve a room.

State Parks Commissioner Bruce Montgomery said Tuesday that despite cheaper rates, visitors tend to shun the parks in the off season.

He said the main reason is that roads — especially to the more remote parks — have been icy.

"Now that the roads are passable, business has improved," Montgomery said. Buckhorn State Resort Park and Pennywell Forest State Resort Park are closed in the off season, but the 13 other resorts are open year-round.

OCA Announces Completion Of Studies

By the Director
Office of Consumer Affairs
Department of Health, Education and Welfare

The Office of Consumer Affairs (OCA) has announced the completion of two studies that took a close look at the consumer complaint process. The studies constitute Phase II of a lengthy effort to evaluate consumer complaints and consumer complaint handling mechanisms. Technical Assistance Research Programs Inc. (TARP) conducted the studies of OCA.

One of the Phase II studies was a national random sample survey that revealed that at least one-third of American consumers have a consumer problem or complaint each year and that:

— Higher income people have more consumer complaints;

— A majority of people who have complaints take some action to resolve them;

— Many people who seek help with consumer problems find the sources they contact at least somewhat helpful.

The survey also revealed that the most common problems consumers experience are:

— Unavailability of advertised merchandise;

— Unsatisfactory performance of services (legal services, medical services).

Another section of the study examined the effectiveness of seven Federal agencies that provide services to consumers, such as veterans benefits or Social Security payments.

The agencies studied were (1) the Manpower Administration; (2) National Park Service; (3) Office of Education; (4) Public Health Service; (5) Social Rehabilitation Service; (6) Social Security Administration; and (7) Veterans Administration.

The results show that more than half of those who had written these agencies for assistance saw room for improvement with the responses they received. And, most of these agencies did not incorporate the information they received from consumers into policy making decisions.

Two more phases of the TARP research studies — to be completed by the end of 1977 — will examine the complaint handling mechanisms of state and local government, business organizations, voluntary groups and Federal Government field offices. When these are finished, OCA will prepare a summary report analyzing the nation's consumer complaint handling mechanisms based on the results of the four phases of the TARP studies.

OCA has a limited supply of TARP II summaries. For a free copy, contact: TARP II, Office of Consumer Affairs, Washington, D. C. 20201; telephone: 202-245-6975.

Proper Pesticide Handling Could Prevent Mishaps, Slow Regulation

FRANKFORT, Ky. — Pesticide regulation and control were among the top accomplishments of the state division of special programs during 1976.

During the year, the pesticide section in the Kentucky Department of Natural Resources and Environmental Protection registered approximately 4,200 pesticide products for sale and use. The first Kentucky pesticides spray school was held — a step, department officials said, toward upgrading commercial applicators in areas of safety, advanced technology and environmental awareness. And the number of licensed applicators increased to more than 1,500.

More than 2,500 farmers were certified to handle restricted-use pesticides through the private applicator program. The educational program aims to decrease the number of accidents and increase overall competence of pesticides users and reduce the number of accidents. Through similar efforts, the pesticides office reduced the number of accidents and damage claims during 1976.

According to pesticides officials, progress was made in reducing illegal pesticide sales, such as fraudulent telephone sales of costly and ineffective "pesticide" products.

The pesticides section has equipped and trained personnel for its laboratory. The laboratory provides the division with analytical capability for use in emergency situations such as poisoning or severe crop damage as well as routine sample analysis.

Cat feces and raw red meat have this in common: they may harbor toxoplasmosis. If acquired during pregnancy, this infectious agent can cause brain damage in the child. The March of Dimes urges pregnant women to avoid handling cat litter, and to eat only meat that is well cooked.

Task Force Seeking To Involve Community In Education Process

Involving community people in education is one of the goals of the Governor's Task Force on Education, according to Don Stephens, task force director.

"We want to get students, parents, teachers — people out in the counties who complain that they don't have a voice in the government — to volunteer to work on our committees," he said.

"We want to give them a chance to be heard, and we want to act on their recommendations," he continued. Stephens said there will probably be 400 to 500 volunteers working with the task force before the work is complete.

In January Stephens became director of the newly formed task force, which will prepare an in-depth, far-reaching study of the state's educational system.

One focus of the study will be student behavior in the elementary and secondary schools.

Stephens indicated that this is the first such study to have been undertaken.

"Many areas of education already have been studied, and this task force will be a matter of our tying it all together and making recommendations," Stephens said. He expects Gov. Julian Carroll to appoint about 35 professional educators and laymen to the steering committee. All will serve on a voluntary basis. Each will steer a sub-committee studying one of the many areas in education from kindergarten through graduate school, such as vocational education, doctoral degrees and physically handicapped individuals.

Their studies will be presented at a conference on education in October. Recommendations will be made which will be used to draft legislation to be acted on during the 1978 legislature.

Assassinations Committee Is Headed For Showdown In Probe

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House assassinations committee is heading for a showdown between its feuding chairman and chief counsel amid reports that the panel is considering dropping its probe of the 1963 slaying of President John F. Kennedy.

The panel was scheduled to meet today for the first time since Chairman Henry B. Gonzalez, D-Tex., tried to fire chief counsel Richard A. Sprague for allegedly trying to undermine Gonzalez' authority.

The committee was created last year to investigate the slayings of Kennedy and civil rights leader Martin Luther King Jr., but the panel has been awash in controversy, primarily over Sprague's demand for a $6.5 million annual budget and his investigative techniques.

The committee's ranking Democrat, Richardson Preyer of North Carolina, said Tuesday that eliminating the Kennedy probe "would be one of the obvious possibilities" in seeking to cut costs. Preyer added, "But certainly we're not even close to a decision on that yet."

Preyer, who heads the subcommittee conducting the Kennedy investigation, emphasized, "I think it would be premature to limit the panel's options on what it's going to do."

The Washington Post, citing informed sources, said today that bypassing the Kennedy probe was one option being considered by Preyer and other panel members. Another option would be to depose both Gonzalez and Sprague and reconstitute the committee under a new chairman and chief counsel, the paper reported.

Although Sprague technically has been replaced by an "acting staff director" named by Gonzalez, committee sources said Sprague was prepared to appear at today's meeting to present proposed budget and operating procedures for the coming year.

In addition to the budget uproar, some House members have criticized Sprague for proposing to use secret recorders, polygraphs and "stress evaluators" in questioning witnesses.

The latest crisis, which some House observers believe could doom the committee, arose when an angry Gonzalez fired Sprague last week, charging that the former Philadelphia prosecutor was a "prima donna" who defied instructions to reduce the staff and make other changes.

The committee's other 11 members subsequently endorsed a letter that said only the full panel, not Gonzalez alone, could oust Sprague.

Death Ruled Suicide

WINCHESTER, Ky. (AP)—A 61-year-old Clark County farmer was found hanged in his tobacco barn Tuesday, authorities said.

James C. Witt died of a broken neck and strangulation, according to Deputy Coroner John Todd. Todd ruled the death a suicide.

Funeral services are scheduled for Thursday.

Richard Powell (right), business manager at General Butler State Resort Park, familiarizes Carolyn Per-ins with Canadian currency. Kentucky's state resort parks will offer foreign currency exchanges beginning March 1.

Shay Retiring As Chief—No Pension

SOUTHGATE, Ky. (AP)—John Shay, who never took a juvenile offender to court, is retiring as chief of police after 22 years, without a pension.

Shay began his career at Southgate in 1950 when the suburban town south of Newport had only 2,500 residents "with quite a few bare spots."

The city, however, is giving him a testimonial dinner at Beverly Hills supper club and he will get the proceeds.

"I have been praised by the juvenile court that we had fewer juvenile problems than any other community of our size," Shay said.

"I never took them to juvenile court. Time goes so fast that if they got their name on a blotter it might interfere with their career," said Shay, adding that men of the town still come by to thank him for not arresting them in long ago incidents.

"One of them is now my boss," said Shay, Mayor Ken Paul.

"The chief stopped me when I was a kid and late stopped me in a car. I have lived in Southgate all my life and he is the only police chief I have ever known," said the 29-year-old mayor.

"In a small town, you just can't show authority," said Shay, 62. "You have to get along with people. If you can get along with people, most of your problems are solved. Get the children on your side, two-thirds of your problems are solved. They won't hurt a friend," Shay said.

"The wife and I are going to California and try it for a while. If we like it, we'll stay. If not, then we'll be back," he said.

Mayor Paul said policemen hired since Shay will get pensions but the city began its program too late for the chief to participate.

Water Conservation A Way Of Life For This Family

ALBION, Calif. (AP)—Rich and Mirna Sharp and their two children are preoccupied with finding enough water for the essentials of life. They try to make do with four gallons a day.

"You don't wash much of anything like windows or floors. When the kids go to a house with water, it's hard to get them to remember to flush the toilet," says Sharp, whose family is one of 19 in this Pacific coastal village of northern California.

Albion is about 150 miles from San Francisco up the rugged coast of drought-hit California, and its 70 residents have been without a firm water supply for a year.

The drought has been intensified because a privately owned waterworks that supplied the village was allowed to fall into disuse after the owner died two years ago. Local efforts are under way to reactivate it.

The Sharps go to Mirna's family's home elsewhere three times a week to bathe, and they never have anyone over for dinner. When something is cooked, the pan goes right to the table. As few dishes are used as possible.

"Seems I haven't drunk water for years," said Sharp. "Can't waste it for drinking. Drink lots of beer and soda pop."

Gloria Petrykowski finds herself in a similar fix: "You don't flush toilets, you can't clean your house, you shower at other people's homes where they have some water to spare, you use bathwater to flush the toilet."

Mrs. Petrykowski, who heads a committee to return a steady water supply to Albion, said, "There's no water in the firehouse itself. They have to go a mile for water, and that's a 'one-shot.'"

The people of Albion have learned not to bother going to Mendocino, 10 miles away. People there are also having it rough and the laundries have long lines all the time.

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP)—The 19th annual Kentucky Young Farmers Association will meet at Louisville Feb. 25-26. Awards will be presented to the top five KYFA members.

Bids To Be Received

Huddleston Blasts Laxness In Congress

WINCHESTER, Ky. (AP) — Sen. Walter Huddleston, D-Ky., has said congressional oversight of federal agencies "is probably the greatest shortcoming of Congress."

In remarks prepared for delivery Tuesday before the Clark County Chamber of Commerce, the Kentucky Democrat cited a report issued by the Senate Government Operations Committee last week which characterized oversight as haphazard.

"We simply must pay more attention to what happens to federal laws and programs once they are implemented,"

Frankfort Sets Fees For Parlors

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — The city commission has set an annual license fee of $25 for five massage parlors instead of the proposed $500.

City Manager Paul Royster said license fees should not be used to discriminate against legal businesses.

"The question of desirability is extraneous to the licensing process," he told the commission Monday night.

Horn Elected

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Norman C. Horn of Hopkinsville has been elected president of the Kentucky Board of Pharmacy, succeeding James T. Arnold of Owensboro.

Huddleston said. "There are several areas in which Congress has been lax in carrying out its constitutional responsibilities," Huddleston said. "To correct these deficiencies will require both courage and internal discipline."

Huddleston called the Senate's weakening of an internal reorganization a "faltering start," but he urged quick implementation of reforms that were accepted.

Huddleston called for full implementation of the Congressional Budget Act which requires Congress to set an annual budget ceiling. He also urged approval of a new congressional code of conduct and strengthening the ethics committees of both houses.

"ACCOUNTS SECTION, JULIAN CARROLL SPEAKING...Hello...Hello...Hello...Who do you want to speak to?" On a surprise tour of the state Department of Revenue offices, Gov. Carroll stops to answer Beverly Yount's telephone. While some employees were shocked when the governor walked in, others were tipped off when they saw photographers and reporters in the halls.

Carroll Takes Surprise Tour Of Revenue Offices

Gov. Julian Carroll took a surprise, whirlwind tour of Department of Revenue offices recently shaking employees' hands, talking about the four-day work week, and even answering a telephone.

The tour, the Governor said, was to "let the employees know how we appreciate their dedication. They're getting the work done, staying the full time and suffering the lowered thermostats." Accompanied by a hoard of reporters and photographers, he asked employees what they thought of the four-day work week.

While some said they liked the new 10-hour days, others agreed with an employee who said, "I don't have any life at home," and complained that she was gone from home 13 hours per day. Some employees also complained that the offices were cold.

When a telephone rang in one office, Gov. Carroll answered it: "Accounts section, Julian Carroll speaking...hello...hello..." When the baffled caller finally told the Governor who she wanted to talk to, he transferred the call.

While employees in the fourth floor offices of the Capitol Annex seem to be divided in their opinions on the new work week, Gov. Carroll said that productivity is as high, "maybe higher" than it is normally.

He said he is considering extending the four-day week into spring and summer to conserve fuel. A decision on that will be made around March 1.

West Virginia Governor To Deliver His 'State Of State'

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — Gov. Jay Rockefeller was expected to detail his legislative program and present a proposed state budget in his "State of the State" address this afternoon.

The House and Senate met in joint session at 2 p.m. to hear the address, which was postponed one week by Rockefeller, who was kept busy handling problems related to last month's severe weather.

Lawmakers have been somewhat stymied the first week of the session, due to the lack of a budget document and a legislative program from the Democratic governor.

Before leaving office Jan. 17, former Gov. Arch A. Moore Jr. prepared a budget calling for expenditures of $915 million from general revenues. But Rockefeller said that document contained few spending restraints and obviously did not provide for programs he has promised, including a tax break and more monies for secondary roads.

The state's 29th governor is expected to spell out his plan to remove the three per cent sales tax on food, provide additional funds for highway maintenance and increase industrial development efforts by the state.

The Senate had at amendment stage today a bill expanding the authority of the legislature's investigative arm — the Purchasing Practices and Procedures Commission. A pending amendment would even further expand the commission's power to undertake probes involving corruption at the county and city levels of government.

The bill, sponsored by Senate President William Brotherton, D-Kanawha, changes the name of the 10-member legislative panel to the Commission on Special Investigations and allows it to investigate conflicts of interest and bribery involving state officials or "any other matter which in the opinion of the commission may bring discredit to the state."

An amendment, by Sen. Alan Susman, D-Raleigh, would broaden the authority to undertake probes involving county and city officials.

Susman said he thought such authority would be a deterrent to any possible illegal activities at those levels of government.

The PPPC was formed in 1968 following a scandal involving state contracts. At first its probes focused on state purchasing procedures, but in later years has expanded its authority to any illegal acts by state officials.

The House passed and sent to the Senate a minor bill involving the serving of legal process in suits against nonresidents of the state. It was the first piece of legislation passed by either chamber.

Brief debate erupted Tuesday on the House floor over a resolution authorizing the employment and payment of a house staff numbering 137 persons.

Del. Larry Sonis, D-Kanawha, complained that the resolution "padded" the payroll by providing for 17 more employees than permitted by the House rules.

The California crop of California figs matures for harvesting because it is first pollinated by the female fig wasp.

McCree Looking Forward To Job As Solicitor General

CINCINNATI (AP) — Judge Wade H. McCree of the 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals said he looks forward to the job of U.S. Solicitor General "with a great deal of enthusiasm and not a little awe."

"It's what I believe is the finest public job a lawyer can have in the United States," said the Detroit, Mich., native after he was nominated for the post by President Carter.

McCree would be the second black man to hold the third-ranking justice department position. U.S. Supreme Court Justice Thurgood Marshall held the post in 1965-67 under President Lyndon B. Johnson.

McCree said he identifies with several former solicitor generals, including fellow Harvard graduates Archibald Cox and Erwin Griswald. Griswald taught McCree at Harvard.

McCree said he also identifies with William Howard Taft, because Taft went from Solicitor General to the 6th Circuit while McCree will be doing the reverse.

McCree, who commutes between the Cincinnati-based court and Detroit, said the news was released while he was en route to Michigan.

"I can't say it was a surprise at all, but the suspense was engendered by the delay between his (Griffin Bell, Attorney General) and the nomination."

The solicitor general represents the United States before the Supreme Court. He also plays a decisive role in choosing which cases and legal issues the government takes to the high court and in charting the administration positions on many other cases reaching the court.

The solicitor general traditionally operates with substantial independence from the attorney general, but the attorney general usually is involved in developing positions in major cases.

Bell had revealed several weeks ago, and McCree confirmed, that the appellate jurist would be named for the post.

McCree, 56, has been a judge on the appellate court since 1966. McCree said he plans to remain with the court long enough to wind up his involvement there.

"I still have two or three cases under advisement that I wish to complete," he said.

"It is important to have my affairs in order."

Franklin Schools

Look At Calendar

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Franklin County Supt. Edward Wright has announced a plan under which county schools would start summer vacation June 10 instead of May 31, as originally scheduled.

The Frankfort school board, meantime, rearranged its calendar differently to make up for 12 days lost because of last month's cold.

It reduced the annual calendar from 175 to 165 days and decided to make up the other two days.
